History The Gathering was formed in 1989 by guitarist/vocalist Jerry Ball, bassist Jeff Cressman and drummer Mike Doling. At first, they were merely a trio, but soon they were joined by guitarist/vocalist Jim Clowers and keyboardist Andy Brandt. They recorded their debut EP Moon in 1991. Jerry, Jeff, and Mike stayed, and soon Brandt left to be replaced by Jordan Krall. It was Krall who suggested the addition of a second guitarist, so Mike O'Neill joined on lead guitar, where he would remain for several years, leaving in 1994 to concentrate on his own band, Disciples of Christ. Mark Deming and Jon Lewis joined the band around this time, and the quintet became a quartet when Brandt moved back to piano; Brandt would stay with the band for several years. Mike O'Neill returned to the band in 1997, followed by Brandt in 1998. In 1999, the Gathering released their self-titled debut album, which was produced by Steve Albini at the now-defunct Big Black Box studio in Portland. Two of the tracks on the album were recorded at Big Black Box, as well. Two singles were released in promotion of the album, "Turn Away" and "Caught Up in You". The band toured extensively through the northwest of the United States, occasionally touring California and even a tour of Sweden. They have participated in several music festivals, including the Wedgefest, Bite of Oregon, and the High Desert Punk Festival. Their second album, Down to the Bone, was recorded in Los Angeles, produced by the band, and released in 2000. Again, two singles were released in support of the album, "How I Love" and "Drunken Whores on the Beach", the latter from the compilation The Chosen Few. Following the release of Down

It is well established that cognitive decline and various neurological disorders are common in aged humans. This finding may be partly attributed to the aging of neural cells leading to degenerative processes. Recently, cell signaling molecules such as neurotrophins (NT), neurotrophin-3 (NT-3), and GDNF have emerged as potential candidate molecules that may play a role in the aging process. Although cell signaling molecules may be linked to neural function, these molecules may also play a role in neurologic disorders. The purpose of the present review is to discuss whether cell signaling molecules such as NTs, NT-3, and GDNF are involved in the aging process, and whether they may be major mediators of age-associated neuropsychiatric disorders such as Alzheimer's disease. Further, this review focuses on the molecular signaling pathways that control the aging process and examine whether these molecules may serve as a link between aging and Alzheimer's disease.A PRIVATE little league team in Connecticut has been sued for $10 million over the use of 'Make America Great Again' emojis on jerseys.
